16-20 題 閱讀測驗：請根據題意，選擇一個最適當的答案。

There is convincing evidence that the risk and protective factors that arise in a person's early childhood can lead to socially undesirable outcomes such as crime later in life. There is however increasing evidence that interventions early in a child's life can be effective in reducing later life crime, and that interventions can procure economic as well as social benefits. In particular, research has shown that early childhood intervention approaches to crime prevention require involvement from all sectors of the community, including police, other government agencies, and community groups. Police can play an important role in terms of providing facilitation between the various government and community organizations. Police are also in a position to be strong advocates for early childhood intervention approaches. However, this approach to crime prevention is a long-term approach, and in the short term there is still an ongoing need for police and other related agencies to continue with the range of crime prevention initiatives currently in place.

16. The passage implies that early childhood interventions _____.

- (A) give rise to social chaos (B) lead to socially undesirable results
(C) encourage children to commit crimes (D) contribute to crime prevention

17. Police can play an important role in terms of providing facilitation between the various government and community organizations. What does "facilitation" mean in this sentence?

- (A) disaster (B) help

18. According to the passage, to reduce crimes we require help from _____.
(A) police (B) other government agencies
(C) community groups (D) all the above
19. If someone is in place, it is _____.
(A) unsuitable (B) replaced
(C) ready to work (D) unimportant
20. According to the passage, which of the following about police is true?
(A) Police can play an important role in crime prevention.
(B) Without police, children grow up with no protective factors.
(C) Police strategies never lead to socially desirable outcomes.
(D) Police are not necessary for adult crime prevention.
